HEAR AND THAR

- ✿ Returning to the airwaves: WQKC-1450 Jeffersonville, Indiana returns with Yahoo Sports: 1450 The Sports Buzz.
- ✿ News Item: Arthur C. Nielsen Jr., who transformed the company his father founded in 1923 into an international leader in market research, helping to make its name synonymous with television ratings, died on Monday in Winnetka, Ill., where he lived most of his life. He was 92.
- ✿ News Item: Say What?!?! All of you cassette tape revivalists are in for some bad news: The Oxford English Dictionary is getting rid of the term altogether. Time reports that for a new edition, the dictionary is cutting the beloved term along with words like “brabble” and “growlery.” The decision isn’t exactly controversial, but it does have some pretty upset. Take for example Bucks Burnett, a music historian who owns the Eight Track Museum, who had a bone to pick with the dictionary company. “I’m going to ban the Oxford Dictionary from the museum. I have a copy and I’m going to recycle it,” Burnett said. “This decision to remove the word was made inside a Starbucks by 20-something editors on their lunch break.” Time points out that while words like “brabble” aren’t really used anymore, cassette tapes aren’t necessarily ancient – especially because the things are still being manufactured.

Here's what you gotta do: Buy the latest issue of the AM Radio Log. (Go to www.nrcdxas.org or contact me.) Each week when you get DX News, you go through DDXD East, DDXD West, and AM Switch columns. Mark up the AM Radio Log as appropriate. You now have the most up-to-date, complete AM station reference in existence.

In the spring, I will ask you to do an AM bandscan for your local area/market. You will note format and programming for your local stations, plus indicate anything unusual and interesting. You will send it to me or to Wayne Heinen for inclusion in next year's edition of the AM Radio Log. You are now an official AM radio archivist/historian. A part of AM DX history.

Mark your calendars. See you next time. (JDT-WA)

Improving your DX skills – tips from new and veteran members

Greetings once again from the Heart of the Continent and welcome to the DX Tool Box Column number 34.

This time around we explore the world of UNID stations. I am sure every one of us has a lengthy list of stations we heard and never managed to get an ID on. I probably have a lengthy list of my own but I will not bore you by listing them here. When I first started in the hobby my logbook had many lines of UNID stations on all different bands from 100 kHz to 30 MHz. Most of them will stay that way as unknown stations and that will be the case for many of us.

Today however we have more tools available to us than we had when I first started to DX back in 1971. In the good old days (not sure why they were good) I could send my UNID loggings into a club that I belonged to. This would take about 10 days to reach an editor via the mail. Then the column editor should he or she see fit, would put them into his or her column the next month. That column would go to the publisher who would see to it that the column was published in an up-coming issue. That issue would be mailed to me and I could see if it was published. At that point others in the club could see my UNID logging. If I was really lucky someone would take the time to see if he or she could be of help to me with ID'ing my logging. Now if they knew what I had heard they could then take the time to write a note to the column editor. The column editor would then start the whole process described above so that I could see what that person had written into the editor. The usual time frame for this was two to four months.

These days we have something called the World Wide Web or Internet. I can join an on line group and post up my UNID logging and hope that someone out there can help out. Unlike the good old days described above someone can give me answer in under an hour and not months down the road. I believe that the expression used these days is OMG (Oh My God)! The time frame is so much shorter than it used to be. We now measure responses in minutes or hours not weeks and months.

Another huge advantage is that the UNID logging posted on line in one or more places is open to so many people. If you belonged to a club in the good old days maybe 200 to 400 people ever saw the logging. Now we have hundreds if not thousands of people viewing it on line. This increases your chances of getting help by leaps and bounds. Also it's free –no more writing a letter and mailing it at your expense to help out somebody.

Add to that the fact that many stations have web pages with streaming audio. You can do a search for the station you think you have and go to their web site. Click on the audio stream and you can do a real time (or close to it) comparison of what you are hearing to see if you have the station you think you are hearing on your radio. To cap off the help from stations some stations or networks list the songs they are playing or have played so you can go back to your recording of the station and check their listing to see if it matches yours.

You can also make use of good old fashioned paper books and magazines. There is no substitute for using something like the WRTH (World Radio TV Handbook) or the NRC AM LOG. Go through the listings and see what you may have heard first then you can claim it is an UNID logging. I started to collect the WRTH and WRH (no TV listings before 1961) in 2005 and I actually went through my collection of WRTH issues to check out my old UNID loggings and managed to ID many foreign DX loggings. It was great to clear some off the UNID list and I even managed one new country heard!

We have all kinds of help come out of every nook and cranny these days but (yes there is always a but in these things) you do need some basic information to help ID any station. This is particularly true if you are going to post or send in and UNID logging to a club or web site or group listing. It is my opinion that every UNID should contain as much of the following information as possible to help others help you find an answer:

- The date that the UNID was heard.
- The time you heard the station and always list the time zone you are using so others can relate to it.

- The frequency you were listening on.
- As much information as you can give such as:
  - The songs or song titles played as opposed to just Oldies or Nostalgia music.
  - Any local ads you may have heard.
  - The teams mentioned in the play by play of a sporting event.
  - The name of any announcers you may have heard.
  - Slogans used as an ID.
  - Language if it was not English (you may have to guess a bit but say it's a guess).
  - The name of any network programming you heard.
  - Any other stations you were hearing on the same frequency so those can be eliminated as a possibility.

All of this and anything else you heard will help other DX'ers to help you. It is the same as in the good old days but now it is faster and cheaper. See below at Earl Higgins' Bits and Bites message for a good example of a good UNID logging submission.

It is very hard to ID a station if all you give other DX'ers is a logging something like this:

1340 Nov 1 at 2305 EST with oldies music weak in a mess of other stations

Sorry but that does not cut it for me. There are too many possibilities and too little information for others to help you out. It maybe all you have but it will have to remain an UNID if that is all you can gather while listening. It is a fact of the hobby that we will all end up with a pile of UNID stations that will stay that way forever.

History on and of the air:

From: Larry Stoler lstoler99@optonline.net Subject: The 90th Anniversary of WBZ

On September 19th, WBZ celebrated 90 years of being on the air. Steve Leveille, the overnight talk show host on the station, had Scott Fybush as a guest on Sunday night/Monday morning from Midnight to 3 A.M. He talked about the history of the station and took phone calls. It was great. Donna Halper, another radio historian, was the guest on Monday night beginning at Midnight. As was the case with Scott, the time spent discussing WBZ expanded from two to three hours. It's good to see a station acknowledge its history. This is a rare occurrence as so many refuse to recognize their contributions to this great medium. Larry Stoler lstoler99@optonline.net

UNID logging:

From: Earl Higgins earlthenut@yahoo.com Subject: 1220 Russian/Slavic/Ethnic? Date: Sat, 24 Sep 2011 20:54:23 -0700 (PDT)

About 20 minutes ago, I was receiving a Slavic/Russian sounding male with talk topping regular WLPO La Salle, Illinois. I live in St. Louis, Missouri, and use an outdoor wire (non-directional). So unfortunately I can't loop which direction it was coming from. It was briefly ATOP the channel, then took a steep dive as it went into Eastern European sounding music. It doesn't seem to fit the Dallas area ethnic station, as it isn't South Asian and the web stream didn't seem parallel. It's just... weird... nobody's format seems to fit. Did somebody switch formats recently? Earl Higgins St. Louis, Missouri [And here's the unID help – WHKW Cleveland runs some Russian programming on Saturday nights. Per the WHKW web site, "Miroam Radio" is currently scheduled at 2100-2200 ELT. – DY]

Looks like DX'ers are still important to radio stations:

Sheldon Harvey ve2shw@yahoo.com Re: Help needed

Firstly, thanks to Wayne Heinen and Paul Swearingen of NRC for granting my request to approach the members of the group with this important request. I have received a request from the Tietolman/Tetreault group, one of the companies applying to put new English and French radio stations on the air in Montreal on clear channel frequencies 940 and 690 kHz. One of the other applicants, Bell Media, owners of The Team 990 (990 kHz) in Montreal is applying to move from their current frequency to 690 kHz. The Tietolman/Tetreault group is planning on filing an intervention in which they will attempt to prove that the current coverage for CKGM-The Team 990 is sufficient on 990 kHz and that there is no need for them to relocate to 690 kHz. The Team 990 in considering this change in frequency because of their recent acquisition of the Montreal Canadiens hockey broadcast rights for the next 7 years, beginning this season. They are claiming that their coverage particularly to the west of Montreal is spotty, particularly at night on 990 kHz., and believe that by relocating to 690 kHz. they will be able to eliminate that issue. It is the intention of Tietolman/Tetreault that their desire to put two brand new stations on the air to offer news/talk and information, in both languages, in the province of Quebec on 690 and 940 kHz. outweighs in importance the desire for The Team 990 to increase their coverage simply for hockey. As a result, I have been asked if I would be able to gather, unfortunately in a very short period of time, reception reports from AM DXers, particularly west, northwest and southwest of Montreal, in both Canada and the north-eastern U.S., both in daytime and night time hours. Therefore I am putting out a call to members of this group within range of CKGM-The Team 990, to monitor the station, both in day and night, and to forward me their signal strength reports, including their location, date and time of the reception reports, and information on any interfering signals on the same frequency. Unfortunately, time is a great concern here. The intervention needs to be filed by September 22nd, so this information would need to be gathered very quickly, with reports being sent to me by e-mail. All persons participating in this exercise will be duly recognized in the text of the intervention, with all reports being attached as addendums to the intervention. Again, speed on this is essential. Ideally, if you could monitor 990 kHz. over the weekend and send me your reports by e-mail by Monday, that will give me plenty of time get everything complied by next Thursday's deadline. Reports should be submitted directly to me (Sheldon Harvey) by e-mail at ve2shw@yahoo.com, and not through the group board. I should point out that I am friends with the Tietolman family. They are "radio guys" and have asked me to help them out as they know I have access to many people in the radio monitoring community who might be able to provide them with the information they require in a short period of time. Thank you in advance for your co-operation and interest in this project and thank you to Wayne and Paul for authorizing this request through the group. I anxiously await your input. I will keep everyone updated on developments down the road. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me. ## NOAA Space Weather Outlook

Issued October 4 – For the period October 5-31, 2011

Solar activity is expected to be at low to moderate levels during October 5-15 with a slight chance for M-class flare activity from Region 1305 until it crosses the west limb on October 7, and the return of old Region 1295 (N24, L=57) on October 8. A decrease to low levels is expected during October 16-17 after Region 1295 rotates off the west limb. During October 18-25, activity is expected to increase to low to moderate levels with a slight chance for major flare activity as old Region 1302 rotates back onto the visible disk. Activity is expected to return to low levels for the remainder of the forecast period (October 26-31) after old Region 1302 rotates off the west limb.

No proton events are expected at geosynchronous orbit from October 5-17. There is a slight chance for a proton enhancement from October 18-27 due to the return of old Region 1302. No proton events are expected during October 25-31.

The greater than 2 MeV electron flux at geosynchronous orbit is expected to be at mostly normal to moderate levels. High levels are expected during October 9-14 and October 28-31 due to influences from coronal hole high speed streams.

Geomagnetic field activity is expected to be mostly unsettled on October 5 due to a CME arrival. Activity is expected to increase to active levels on October 6 due to continued CME effects. Activity is expected to decrease to mostly unsettled levels during October 7-9 as effects from the CME subside and a negative polarity coronal hole moves into a geoeffective position. Activity is expected to continue to decrease to mostly quiet levels during October 10-27. During October 28-30, activity is expected to return to mostly unsettled levels due to a positive polarity coronal hole. Finally, activity is expected to decrease to mostly quiet levels on October 31.
