Monsieur Kelly Andrews,

Cher monsieur Andrews,

Yours is the first of a series of letters this station will be receiving during the next few months...
Thanks very much for your reception report and recording tape.
If I am not mistaking, I was already asked by one of your members (National Radio Club) to write a few words about CJVA Radio-Acadie. Being Atlantic's Canada newest French-speaking (language) radio station, CJVA has one of the largest daytime coverage in Eastern Canada. It is heard in at least five provinces (Québec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland) and the French department of St-Pierre et Miquelon (off the coast tip of Newfoundland.) It is strategically located on the northeastern tip of New Brunswick between Baie des Chaleurs and Gulf of St-Laurent. Caraquet (and the Acadian Peninsula) is known for its French-Acadian culture, large fishing industry and is the cultural centre of this only bilingual Canadian province. Close to 40% of New Brunswickers are French-speaking, descendants of the first European settlers to Canada.
Unfortunately, we don't have available any QSL card but we will be sending you this letter as verification.
