Dear Sir,

Thank you for your letter of December 27th and for the enclosed International Reply Coupons.

The Northern Ireland or Northern Home Service of the BBC is radiated on 1151 kc/s by transmitting stations at Lisnagarvey, Stagshaw, Londonderry and Scarborough. Between 0700-0750 GMT the general programme sequence in the Home Services is as follows:-

0700 GMT	News
0710 GMT	Programme Parade
0715-0750 GMT	Programme of Light Music.

It was therefore most likely this service which you heard on the morning of December 26th.

We are now receiving a large number of reports of reception of our medium wave transmissions in North America, and similarly American medium wave transmissions are quite frequently received here during the hours of darkness.

We regret that we do not issue verification cards but thank you for your interest in sending the report.

Yours faithfully,

(J. Siller)

for Senior Superintendent Engineer, External Broadcasting.
