Dear Kermit,

Thanks for the Dx report. We were very happy to receive your very nice letter telling us that our little "coffee pot" was boiling hard enough to land a signal in your part of the country. I might add that your letter was rather nice after wading through a stack of cold, formal printed Dx forms.

The equipment here is, for the most part, Gates. The transmitter, freq. control unit, modulation monitor, and limiting amplifier are all Gates. The freq. monitor is a Doolittle and the tower is a 150 ft. Windcharger.

We have a two studio setup with a control room that doubles in brass by also housing the transmitter. The building is a large modernistic affair with four sloping plate glass windows set in the front. The location is on top of a high hill, and from where I sit, at this typewriter, I can look out for several miles over the countryside.

Thanks again for the report. Hoping to hear from you again sometime, I remain, yours truly,

Tom Martin
