Dear Wayne:

This will confirm reception of KRVT 1270 on March 11, 2003.

KRVT operates on 1270 with 1000 watts daytime, 500 watts between 6:00 a.m. and local sunrise and 26 watts at night. The station transmits an independent sideband mono signal, with the lower sideband carrying about 15 db more energy than the upper. The unbalanced sidebands result in a more robust AM signal which is less subject to fading. Still, its amazing that you could hear the nighttime signal. All the equipment in the world can't beat good propagation conditions.

Good luck with the hobby and good DX.

Sincerely,

Stan Tacker
