

NORS RIKSKRINGKASTING STAVANGER
(Norwegian Broadcasting Station, Stavanger Branch.)

Stavanger, Norway February 6th 1948.

Mr. S. R. Morss,
R-3, Bradford,
Mass. U.S.A.

Dear Sir,

We have just today received your letter of 23rd Jan. 1948. Your report of that named day is right.

7.13 GMT Organ music
7.14 " Announcement
7.15 " Vocal-by woman singer
7.18 " Talk (by a preacher)
7.30 " Vocal selection - woman singer
7.35 " Announcements

As you writes, our programs cannot be heard after 737 GMT, because the situation about the electric power here in Norway is very bad for the the time. Last Summer we had very little rain, and the lakes have a very low waterstand, and so we have to spare the electric. We are starting again at 11.15 GMT and finishing 10.30 p.m.GMT.

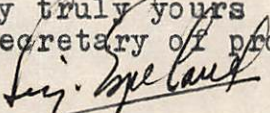

Our station has a strenghtnes of 100 kw, and is broadcasting on 850 kilocycles.

If your are looking on your map, you will find Stavanger on the south-western part of Norway, just on the coastline.

The town is well known for its canning industry, and among the canners, I suppose you have heard the name Chr. Bjelland & Co. Stavanger is also well known for their airport, named Sola, which often was reportet in the newsbulletins during the wartime.

We should be glad to hear some others report of our station.

Very truly yours
for the Secretary of programs

Sig. Espeland
