Dear David:

Thank you for taking the time to write about our DX Test. We enjoyed hearing about the band conditions in Florida on the 18th.

It appears that our test was big flop. We haven't received any reception reports, making us the most widely unheard station in Alaska. We picked a bad night. The band was dead up here and I'm sure our signal wasn't going anywhere. There was a solar flare just three days prior to the test and that wiped out everything. Two days later the band was open again and we were hearing Hawaii and Lower 48 stations roaring in. Guess we will try again next Spring.

This past summer, we had a good report from New Zealand and last winter from Finland.

Thanks for writing and good DX.

Sincerely,

Les Robinson
