Mr. Thomas

Thank you for your letter concerning the change in WNBE. This letter should confirm your reception of our signal at 2 p.m. August 24, 1975. WBJW went off the air Sunday June 15, 1975, and WNBE came on the air Wednesday June 18, 1975 as an All-News and Information station. The same ownership still has WNBE, simply the call sign and format were changed, and the staff considerably modified and augmented to implement the new programming. Don Anglin is still the chief engineer of both WNBE and WBJW-Fm. We remain 5-thousand watts day and 1000 watts directional east-west at night.

Again, thank you for your interest.
